GLOBAL EXPERIENCE IN CREATING FLEXIBLE FINANCIAL INSTRUMENT LINES FOR NATIONAL EXPORTS SUPPORT: IMPORTANCE FOR RUSSIA

The novelty of the article consists in generalization of the world experience of forms of national export financial support with a view of its possible use of Russia. The urgency of this problem is due to the "Draft National Export Strategy of Russia till 2030", which replaced the outdated strategy of 2014-2020. The relevance of this article lies in the analysis of foreign experience in creating flexible lines of financial instruments to support exports in Russia. On the basis of a dialectical assessment of the world experience in the exports financial support the proposals for using its advantages and preventing losses in Russia are justified.

Keywords: export strategy, flexible lines of financial instruments of export support, world experience of national export support.

BANKING IT OUTSOURCING IN THE BANKING SYSTEM INFRASTRUCTURE

A wide range of high-quality products and services based on modern electronic information technologies at an affordable cost for customers requires significant investment in technical, technological and software for their creation and implementation. In order to save money, banks use the services of IT outsourcers - specialized firms within the banking infrastructure. They implement some operations, functions and business processes, for the implementation of which the corresponding equipment is necessary. With regard to the banking sector, IT outsourcing is most actively developing in the field of using blockchain technologies, which allows obtaining information necessary for the bank from independent databases and data warehouses. The article discusses the life cycle of a bank loan in the blockchain, the appropriateness of outsourcing banking activities.

Keywords: customer oriented activities, banking infrastructure, IT outsourcing, business process, blockchain.

THE EFFECT OF RIKSBANK (CENTRAL BANK OF SWEDEN) REPO RATES ON COMMERCIAL BANK LENDING RATES

The article discusses the role of the repurchase rate of Riksbank (Central Bank of Sweden) in the formation of the credit policy of commercial banks. In the modern economy, there are a large number of factors affecting the values of fundamental indicators, including interest rates on loans. Of interest is an assessment of the relationship between the interest rates of central banks and the interest rates of commercial banks abroad. That is why the determination of the impact of changes in Riksbank's repo rates as one of the key interest rates on loans from commercial banks in Sweden is relevant.

Keywords: Central Bank of Sweden, Riksbank, key rate, repo rate, interest rate on loans.
